Carol Gannon is the Personal Social and Citizenship Education Subject Leader at Lawnswood High School in Leeds. All the PSCE teachers at the school have used Boardworks resources throughout their KS3 and KS4 teaching since 2006.

Carol comments: “I am very impressed with Boardworks resources – they are such a life saver! Staff and pupils alike find them interesting, as they include lots of different approaches to the subject. The tone is appropriate for all students, is simple enough for the lower ability children and also caters for our ‘visual learners’.”

Students at Lawnswood High School love the interactive activities. Carol says: “We have competitions with the whole class. Everyone tries to race against the student doing the activity on the interactive whiteboard. This can fulfil ‘Assessment for Learning’ criteria providing mini plenaries to check learning has taken place.

“It’s a really worthwhile product that stands on its own and doesn’t need editing. A bonus is that you can use the presentations in part, integrating them into your lesson plans. I recommend it to all my colleagues! I really do rate Boardworks.”
