Stephen Kinson is Head of Science at Edmonton County School in Enfield. The science department use Boardworks A-Level Science resources in their lessons on a regular basis.

‘The resources are integrated into pretty much every lesson to some extent or other, and we use them throughout the department,’ says Stephen.

Stephen likes the way that the resources match to the curriculum. ‘They’re very tailored towards courses and the national curriculum. Generally, you can find something on each point of the specification.’ The resources have saved Stephen and his department a huge amount of time. ‘Boardworks is always a good starting point, and it has provided a basic staple in terms of resources.’

Stephen finds that the interactivity in the resources engages his students. ‘In terms of getting students involved, it’s great. It’s got good graphics, and good visual pictures. The A-Level students like that they can access it outside lessons too.’

Stephen concludes, ‘I’d have to say that it’s good value for money – we’ve used it year after year!’
